Red Assault Fails; Americans Kill 581

SAIGON (AP) — A Communist regiment of some 2,500 men failed in an assault on jungle fighting Americans Saturday and left 581 dead as it fled beneath a hail of shellfire.

More Communist dead and wounded were taken from the field by harried comrades.

The breakdown of American casualties was 16 killed and 71 wounded, a U.S. spokesman said.

Associated Press correspondent John Wheeler reported from the battlefield that 57 Viet Cong bodies were counted inside the U.S. positions where their charge was broken.

U.S. officers reported five Communists were taken prisoner and 50 weapons cleared from the battlefield late Saturday. Many more were scattered about but uncollected as darkness fell Saturday.

The Communist escape route to nearby Cambodia was hit by B52 Superforts from Guam — each carrying 60,000 pounds of bombs which they unloaded close to the battlefield.

Yanks Ready

The fierce battle in War Zone C northwest of Saigon erupted Friday when the Reds bloodied an initial force of about 200 infantrymen of the U.S. 1st Division who ran into a hidden Communist bunker complex. When the Reds hurled their assaults Saturday American firepower was in place to cut them down.

One battlefield report put the Red losses as high as 500 men. The U.S. headquarters spokesman said "the enemy casualty count is high" but added that he had no official figures pending a review to eliminate possible duplications in body counts. American losses, too, were believed substantial but there were no official figures.

The swirling battle in the jungles of Tay Ninh Province marked a resurgence in the ground war that was reflected by scattered fights elsewhere notably just below the 17th Parallel that divides Vietnam.

The Air Force announced 101 bombing missions over North Vietnam Friday and the loss of the 499th U.S. plane to be shot down over North Vietnam.

The Tay Ninh battle was the third Communist attempt in the past month to overrun a major American task force.

Crack Cong Troops

It showed the Communists were still willing to pay heavily themselves in their strategy of attrition to raise American casualty figures.

The enemy regiment battered Saturday in Tay Ninh, is the 271st, the sister regiment to the two others which were decimated in two battles within the past month. All belonged to the crack Viet Cong 9th Division which has fought many of the war's major battles in the area from Saigon to the Cambodian border.

Mutual Net Settles In Radio-TV Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Union and management negotiators meet with federal mediators today in efforts to settle the four-day strike against the three major television and radio networks.

The Mutual Broadcasting System, a radio network only, announced a settlement Friday night with the 18,000-member American Federation of Television and Radio artists. Mutual network newsmen began reporting to work immediately.

While terms of the agreement were not immediately made public, there were reports that Mutual settled for a $300-a-week base salary for newsmen plus cash for overtime, a figure which networks were said to have previously offered. While negotiations had broken off with other natworks, Mutual and the union had continued their talks.

Both sides agreed that the contract would not necessarily affect negotiations between the union and the other networks. The Mutual settlement affects about 100 newsmen and announcers in New York and Washington.

Bargain Today

This left CBS, NBC and ABC to bargain today in the first meetings since negotiations broke off Tuesday night. The strike was called at 5 a.m. Wednesday.

David Brinkley, of the NBC news team of Huntley-Brinkley, was quoted as saying from his home in Chevy Chase, Md., that he would not return to work until the strike is settled.

Chet Huntley, who has remained on the air as the New York anchor man of NBC's dinner hour newscast, appealed personally to 40 colleagues at NBC to give up the strike.

Huntley urged formation of a union exclusively for broadcast journalists. He said he had received "100 per cent support" from 37 newsmen, including Brinkley.

Will Picket

Officials of AFTRA, which represents announcers, performers, singers and disc jockeys, discounted Huntley's claim of widespread support. They said their information "is quite the opposite."

Brinkley declined comment on Huntley's claim that he was supporting Huntley's movement.

Walter Cronkite, Huntley's counterpart at CBS, has honored the picket line and stayed off the air. Cronkite, who has a cold, said he would be on the picket line next week.

Garrison Asks Arrest Of Two

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison has asked Canadian and Texas authorities to arrest two men charged in an incident which Garrison's office says "may or may not be related" to his probe of the Kennedy assassination.

Garrison telegraphed arrest warrants Friday to Montreal for Gordon Novel and to Dallas, Tex., for Sergio Arcacha Smith, based on charges of conspiring to burglarize a munitions bunker in 1961.

Garrison obtained a warrant for Novel's arrest last week as a material witness in the probe of President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

The new charge accused Novel and Arcacha of conspiring with David W. Ferrie to commit simple burglary of a munitions dump in Houma, about 40 miles southwest of New Orleans.

Garrison has alleged that Ferrie, Lee Harvey Oswald and Clay L. Shaw plotted in mid-September 1963 to kill President Kennedy. Oswald and Ferrie are dead. Shaw, 54, a retired New Orleans executive, has been indicted on a charge of conspiring to kill the president.

Car Makers Go Into Court On Safe Standard

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry, which has blamed slumping sales on the auto safety furor, went to court Friday challenging three of the safety standards ordered by the federal government for 1968 cars.

One by one, they filed suit, asking the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, to throw out the standard aimed at making the car interior safer for passengers in an accident.

American Motors also challenged two others — one requiring door latches and hinges that will keep doors from popping open in collisions, the other requiring steering columns that can jam no more than three inches toward the driver even in head-on crashes.

No sooner had the industry struck the latest blow in the safety debate than Chrysler Corp., announced it would layoff 21,000 men this month because it is building cars faster than they are being sold.

The layoffs will be at Chrysler plants in St. Louis, Los Angeles, Newark, Del., Belvedere, Ill., Detroit and Hamtramck, Mich.

The auto makers' main target was the so-called passenger impact protection standard setting specifications for equipment in the area of the passenger's head, knees and legs.

It requires, in essence, that the instrument panel, seat backs, sun visors, knobs, handles and arm rests be built so as to reduce the possibility of injuries.

General Motors and Ford, the two biggest auto builders, said flatly they couldn't meet it on 1968 cars.

Next year's models were planned months ago and are only a few months from the production line. The standard would require Chrysler to redesign completely its instrument panel and other interior parts at great difficulty and expense, the suit said.

Chrysler said it wouldn't be able to comply with all the provisions of the standard for another year or two.

Juda Memorial Service Planned For Nine Girls

JUDA, Wis. (AP) — Juda High School's class of '67 returned home Friday, 23 at noon, nine at midnight.

A school bus delivered survivors of a senior class trip for a somber reunion in front of the village fire station.

Nine hearses arrived 12 hours later with the bodies of nine girls who died Thursday when a jetliner hit their New Orleans motel.

"How would you feel if you lost your classmates?" asked class president Daryl Miller. "We were one big happy family."

The class secretary, Donna Lehr, staggered from the bus in tears. She said later, "I was okay until we got back here — and then it hit me. Now there are only seven girls left."

The bodies of the nine other girls were returned in coffins to Madison, 45 miles north of this quiet village.

The high school planned mass memorial services Sunday. Classes will resume Monday, but the seniors will not return until Wednesday after the last of individual family services.

The nine girls were among 19 victims of the crash.

"Everybody ran to the other end of the motel," said Donna Lehr. "We knew right away. We counted up. All the boys were there. And nine girls were missing."

Romney Consults U Thant In Viet Policy Research

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Gov. George Romney, in search of a Vietnam policy, has added another name to the lengthy list of experts he has consulted on the Southeast Asia situation—U. N. Secretary-General U Thant.

The governor, an unannounced contender for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, met Thant at a breakfast arranged by University of Michigan President Harlan Hatcher Friday. The meeting was held in a private off-campus guest house owned by the university.

"It was a very open, very informative discussion," Romney said later. "We talked about an hour and a half, and practically all the time was spent on Southeast Asia. I appreciated getting a picture of the area as he sees it."

The governor said he "picked up some information I didn't have before."

Last September, Romney met privately in the same guest house with Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos for a briefing on how his nation smashed a threat from communism similar to that posed in Vietnam.

U Thant's native Burma also faced a post-World War II communist uprising in 1947 and 1948, and the following year some Karen tribesmen attacked the government. The Burmese army began defeating the rebels in 1950, and later the government offered freedom to the communist guerrillas if they would lay down their arms.

Romney, who says he is still deliberating whether to toss his hat into the presidential ring, has not spelled out his specific views on Vietnam.

Some political observers say he has fumbled the ball several times on the issue, issuing contradictory statements and refusing to answer newsmen's question when pressed for details.

The governor has said, however, that he will devote an April 7 speech in Hartford, Conn., to the Vietnam situation.

In preparing for his anticipated pronouncement, Romney has consulted with Republican senators and congressmen, present and former foreign affairs experts in the State Department, military leaders and former U.S. Ambassador to South Vietnam, Henry Cabot Lodge.

Cow Slaughter NFO Answer To Milk Dump Ban

CORNING, Iowa. (AP) — The milk withholding campaign of the National Farmers Organization marked time today while the NFO awaited results of Monday's plans to have members slaughter dairy cows.

This maneuver, announced Friday, is scheduled to start on the 20th day of the NFO drive to raise farmers' prices of milk two cents a quart.

It could afford the NFO another means to emphasize the purpose of the holding action.

Oren Lee Staley, NFO president, said no NFO member has been asked to decimate his dairy herd, but rather to haul one or two cow to stations where cattle are bought for slaughter. Trucks carrying a single animal at a buying station usually draw more than passing attention.

The NFO is under a federal court's 10-day restraining order against any violence or illegal acts to interfere with interstate shipments of milk.

Two Guards Die In Arsenal Blast At Jackson Pen

JACKSON (AP)—An explosion rocked the arsenal of the State Prison for Southern Michigan Friday night, killing two guards and knocking out electric power that controls the prison gates.

The blast, amid gunpowder, tear gas and other weapons material, set off a fire and two more explosions that shattered the interior of the arsenal and its equipment.

No damage estimate was available. "There's no way to say at this point," said Louis Utess, assistant to Warden George A. Kropp. "I'd say destruction was 90 per cent, and that may be conservative."

Authorities threw the prison gates on manual control immediately after the first explosion and Utess said there was no security risk.

The victims were Joe D. Crater of Jackson, the arsenal control officer on duty at the time, and Max Hinckley, also of Jackson, who was in the arsenal, too.

Utess said cause of the explosion had not been determined, but that the fire marshall's investigation was continuing.

The fire raged for more than an hour before the convict fire-fighting division extinguished it.

The first eruption came at 6:05 p.m. Four hours later the prison gates were still on manual control, without electric power.

The arsenal is in the administration building, which houses the warden's office and several other facilities.

The building is two stories, made of reinforced concrete and brick.

The second floor above the arsenal was not damaged, Utess said.

"It appears that the main force of the blast went out through several grilled and barred windows on the south side, away from the rest of the building," he said.

The institution is the largest walled prison in the world, enclosing 57½ acres. It houses 3,730 convicts.

No one has ever escaped the prison over the walls, although, in 1963, one man got out by digging a hole through the wall, Utess said.

A third officer was shaken up, but not injured, he said.

Lockout Due If Union Hits Firm At A Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Teamsters Union started a strike vote today in the first major showdown between the union and the nations trucking industry.

Government - sponsored talks to head off a walkout continued. Negotiators for both sides met until the early morning hours and federal mediators said more talks were expected later in the day.

One major group of trucking firms threatened to shut the doors of 1,500 firms and lock out some 200,000 workers if the union carries out its threat of selective strikees against a few key companies.

"There will be an "immediate and complete cessation of our operations" in the event of a strike against any firms, said President M.M. Gordon of Trucking Employers Inc.

Both Gordon and Teamsters officials said they saw little hope of an agreement in their national trucking contract talks during the weekend.

Trucking Employers Inc. represents 1,500 major transcontinental firms that carry about 65 per cent of the nation's truck cargoes.

Post-Hoffa Crisis

A shutdown by these companies also would severely crimp 10,000 smaller firms involved in the negotiations that serve largely as feeder lines between the big firms.

The crisis was the first for the 1.8 million-member Teamsters Union since its president, James R. Hoffa, went to prison several weeks ago. The outcome could affect political maneuvering for control of the world's largest union.

Federal mediators stepped into the talks in an attempt to narrow the big gap of 19 cents an hour between the Teamsters demands and the industry's last offer.

The union, which originally demanded 75 cents per hour over three years, scaled that down to 56 cents. The industry responded with a 37-cent offer.

Fringes Asked Too

The union's money demand does not include higher mileage pay rates for long-haul truck drivers, numerous fringe benefits and new equipment also being asked.

Gordon said figuring in all items, the union demands total 95 cents an hour per worker over three years and the industry's last offer totals 49 cents.

Gordon said the Teamsters contract demands would represent an increase of more than 11 per cent a year. He figured the industry's counter offer at about 4 per cent annually.

There was no word from the smaller trucking companies on whether they would follow the lead of Trucking Employers Inc. if there is a strike or a shut down.

In the past, when Hoffa was running negotiations, the smaller companies fell quickly into line with union demands.

But with Hoffa in prison on an eight-year jury-tampering sentence, many observers view the industry's shutdown threat as an attempt to break away from the nationwide bargaining pattern which Hoffa first forged three years ago.

Restrained

CHICAGO AP — A federal court issued today a temporary order restraining conductors and brakemen from going out on a nationwide railroad strike.

Judge Richard B. Austin of the U. S. District Court issued the order at the request of the railroads.

The Order of Railroad Conductors and Brakemen had called a walkout for 12:01 a. m. Saturday.

The judge's order will last until April 10. A hearing on an injunction against the strike was scheduled for April 7.

James E. Wolfe, head of railroad management's team of negotiators, said: "We expect the conductors to obey the court order."

Ryerson To Take First Ore Cargo Here Wednesday

By CLINT DUNATHAN

Inland Steel's flagship, the big ore carrier Ryerson, will come to Escanaba on Wednesday, April 5, to open the ore shipping season on the Great Lakes.

The icebreaker Mackinac is scheduled to open channels from Lake Michigan into Escanaba on Tuesday and then assist the Ryerson through 20-inch ice to the Chicago & North Western Railway ore dock the following day.

The Ryerson will take on a cargo of 23,000 tons of pellet ore from the Empire Mine and will clear for Indiana Harbor, it is reported by L. A. McMillan, C&NW dock agent.

Last year the first ore carrier to load at Escanaba was on March 31.

Decision to bring the Ryerson in first was made after an inspection of ice conditions from the air by Reilly O'Brien, Inland Steel fleet manager, and Capt. James Shoesmith, commanding officer of the Ryerson.

They flew to Escanaba from Chicago on Friday, surveying the ice situation that is one of the worst in several years, and returned to Chicago in the afternoon.

The Ryerson will leave Indiana Harbor on Monday for Escanaba, proceed to the channels leading into the ice fields that choke the entrance to Green Bay, and wait there until the Coast Guard gives the "go ahead" signal.

"The Ryerson will feel it out before other boats come up, and it is expected she will reach Escanaba on Wednesday — if she can," McMillan reported.

Slow This Year

The Mackinac will escort the Ryerson from open water through the ice to Escanaba. The Chamber of Commerce each year greets the first vessel with a welcoming ceremony and a gift for the skipper.

Last year the Charles West of the Reiss Steamship Co. was the first ore carrier to reach Escanaba, the only iron port on Lake Michigan. Iron ore loading here usually precedes loadings at Lake Superior ports by a week to 10 days.

The Empire Mine on the Marquette iron range is the only one now loading ore, and one train a day is coming to Escanaba in preparation for the opening of the shipping season.

Ice conditions at the Straits of Mackinac and in the St. Marys River are likely to keep marine traffic at a crawl at those locations for several more days.

1st Turbo-Jet Flown By NC

North Central Airlines today inaugurates Convair 580 prop-jet service.

Equipped with two 3,750-horsepower Allison turbine engines, the 580 will fly 100 miles an hour faster than the Convair 440. It reaches a comfortable cruising altitude of 10,000 feet in only five minutes and gives a smooth, quiet ride.

A distinctive aqua, blue, and gold paint design, combined with the four-bladed propellers, make the Convair 580 easily identifiable.

The first two Convair 580's will initially serve Eau Claire, Wausau, Stevens Point, Oshkosh, Green Bay, Manitowoc, Madison, and Milwaukee, Minneapolis, and Duluth, Superior, Rapid City, Pierre, Aberdeen, and Watertown, and Chicago.

On April 30, another jet-powered Northliner will be added, and 580 service will be provided at Hibbing and International Falls, Minn., LaCrosse, Wis., and Port Arthur, Ont. Two more Convair 580's will be put in service on June 9.

There after, the prop - jets will be scheduled at an approximate rate of one a month until the program is completed. North Central's 31 aircraft plan calls for the conversion of 20 Convair 440's, with an option to convert the other 11.

Later this summer, North Central will inaugurate Douglas DC-9 fan jet service. The airline has 10 of the 100-passenger jets on order, and an option for another five. The Convair 580's, combined with the DC-9's, will give the airline an all jet-powered fleet by 1968.

Legislature May Delay County Apportionment

By DAVE ANDREWS

The Michigan House of Representatives is expected to begin debate next week on a bill which, if passed and then approved by the Senate, would delay reapportionment of county boards of supervisors.

Rep. Charles Varnum (R-Manistique) said Friday that House Bill 2884 will be reported out of committee to the floor of the House next Tuesday and could come up for a vote as early as Wednesday. The bill would give counties until May 15, 1971, to reapportion on the one-man, one-vote principal.

"The bill looks good," said Varnum. "It has lots of support."

Unless the legislature moves, county boards in counties with populations under 75,000 must under Public Act 261 of 1966 reapportion themselves by April 10. Failing to do so, the question —like in more populated counties — goes to a County Apportionment Commission composed of the Clerk, Treasurer, Prosecuting Attorney and county chairman of the Republican and Democratic political parties.

Eye On Deadline

Varnum said the legislature is keeping an eye on the April 10 deadline and probably will push for quick action on the pending bill. He said the Senate is also aware of the deadline.

The bill is sponsored by Rep. Willim Weber (R-Kalamazoo) and is currently under consideration in the House Towns and Counties committee chaired by Rep. Stanley M. Powell (R-Ionia).

Through Friday, Varnum said, only 10 of Michigan's 83 counties had completed reapportionment. Six counties, he said have done absolutely nothing. The remaining 67 are somewhere in the process.

In the Upper Peninsula, Luce and Gogebic counties have completed reapportioning. At least Marquette, Dickinson and Iron counties are actively considering action.

To Meet April 11

Delta County's Board of supervisors, although aware of the problem, has made no move to date. Next board meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, April 11, too late to meet the deadline.

The question, however, is expected to come up at the meeting with the possibility that a committee of supervisors could be appointed to work with the Apportionment Commission. Although the committee of supervisors would not have legal authority. Clerk William Butler, who would convene the commission, indicated supervisors would be welcome to join in deliberations.

Public Act 261 provides that counties with population from 10,001 to 50,000 must apportion into not more than 15 county board representative districts. At least some members on the current county board favor even a smaller number, reducing the now 27-member board to perhaps five, seven or 10.

Changes Drastic

Whether five or 15 members were ultimately decided upon, the change in the makup of the board would be drastic.

Currently, Bay de Noc Township with a 1960 census population of 266, Ensign Township with 431, Fairbanks Township with 319, Garden Township with 391, and Nahma Township at 569 each have a representative on the Board.

If the County decided on the maximum 15-member Board, the combined population of those five townships plus the 380 population in the Village of Garden would just about hit the standard for single member.

More Problems

Should a nine or 10 member board be adopted Masonville Township's 1,255 population might have to be added to the other five townships to make a single district.

In the Cities of Escanaba and Gladstone, changes also might be needed in voting precincts to equalize districts. In the county, townships might have to be divided.

Charles Sedenquist, Wells Township Supervisor and chairman of the Board, pointed out, however, that even if a satisfactory formula for reapportioning the county was worked out the problems wouldn't end there.

Township supervisors are tax assessing officers and every April, sitting in a body as the County Boad, they equalize tax valuation for the county. Reapportioning the county would remove many of those supervisors from county board office, thus creating a problem with equalization.

Sedenquist said that the answer may be county assessers and a county Board of Review.

What will happen in Delta County is still undecided.

If the legislature approves the four-year delay in implementing the one-man, one-vote principal at the county level, the Board of Supervisors will have time to make its own decision and Harold Vanlerberghe, Escanaba, indicated he would ask for a committee to be appointed to make a thorough study of the problems before acting.

With no legisiative action, the job rests with the Apportionment Commission with a May 15 deadline.

Delta County's eyes will be on Lansing next week.

An auction was held to help supplement the troop's budget. The prize, donated by Joe Bushey Wholesale Meats, was won by Mrs. John M. Whitney. Bushey also announced that a bake sale will be held April 8. Persons wishing to contribute should call ST6-2320, ST6-5506, or ST6-5730 for pick-up.

Tenderfoot badges were awarded to Bradford Bender, Michael Swanson, Roger Deiter and Richard Pepin; Second Class to David Derouin, Mark Jackson, Bill Whitney, Allan Larson, Gary Bergeon and Paul Swanson.

Assistant Junior Scoutmasters Dan Bergeon and Allan Larson closed the meeting.

All Rock 4-H members and leaders will leave Rock by bus on Saturday, April 1, at 8 a. m. for Escanaba to attend the county Achievement Day program.

DEADLY DECEMBER

When the sun goes down, pedestrian deaths go up, and December is the worst month for walkers since there is more darkness then.

Only Two Men Called By Draft

Only two Delta County men, lowest total in recent months, have been ordered to report for induction into the U. S. Army in the April draft call.

Mary M. Wagner, clerk of Selective Service Board 21, announced today that Gary H. Boudreau, Escanaba, and Donald J. Hardwick, Nahma, have been ordered to report April 4. Hardwick's orders have been mailed to Madison Heights, Wis.

Also scheduled to report April 4 is Roger D. Kinnart of Perkins, who will take pre-induction examinations at Milwaukee.

The men will report at 8:30 a. m. Kinnart will return from Milwaukee April 5.

Miss Wagner said the May induction order calls for three men and the pre-induction call for one man, all to report May 2. Orders will be mailed to those chosen in the near future, she said.

Thompson Purchase To Aid Coho Plans

The Michigan Conservation Commission will be asked at its monthly meeting in Lansing Thursday and Friday to purchase a tract of land in Schoolcraft County that is regarded as being of outstanding importance to the future of the anadromous fish program on Lake Michigan.

Involved is a strip of land with 370 feet fronting on Thompson Creek less than 400 feet upstream from the mouth that is being offered for $5,000. It adjoins the Village of Thompson five miles west of Manistique and is owned by Erwin Chesbrough of Asheville, Ala., and Betty Chesbrough Tucker of Birmingham, Ala., The tract is the former location of the Chesbrough Lumber Co. office and residence.

Anadromous fish production is scheduled for the state's Thompson Hatchery in the near future. Spring plants of both coho and Chinook salmon are planned for Thompson Creek. The native steelhead trout run in this stream has been increasing, further emphasizing the growing importance of control of this water in public ownership, the Conservation Department said.

Recent Purchase

A 40-acre tract surrounding the small Chesbrough parcel was purchased recently by the department. It has 1,200 fee of frontage on Thompson Creek and 2,270 feet of frontage on Lake Michigan.

In urging the commission to purchase the Chesbrough property, the department said, "There is a strong possibility that Thompson Creek may need to be closed to public fishing during spawning runs to permit return of steelhead trout to the hatchery waters."

Other land matters on the commission agenda include two proposed land exchanges in the Upper Peninsula.

Delta County Deal

One involves 40 state-owned acres in the Hiawatha National Forest in Delta County that would be part of a three-way accommodation exchange. Walter W. Wilbee, Rapid River, is offering an interest in eight acress along the Benzie River in downstate Benzie County for the Delta County forty. In another segment of the exchange, Richard Rogala of Mackinaw City is offering an interest in 185 acres along the Betsie River for 6.85 state-owned acres in Cheboygan County. The state land adjoins property Rogala has developed as the Mackinaw Campgrounds with more than 200 camping sites available to the public.

In the other proposed exchange, Charles E. Koepp of Marinette, Wis., is offering 25 acres in the Tittabawassee River State Forest in Midland County for 40 state-owned acres in the Menominee State Forest in Menominee County. If approved, the exchange would consolidate ownership of both parties.

Scholarships To Four In Delta

MARQUETTE— Eleven Upper Peninsula students, including three girls who have earned all A's in high school, have been awarded Lakehead Pipeline Co. scholarships to attend Northern Michigan University in the 1967-68 academic year.

Warning

OTTAWA, Ont. (APA) — Canada's mining industry has received a warning that it will have to change its ways to solve its current labor shortage.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and metallurgy was told by Energy Minister Jean-Luc Pepin that mines will have to improve salaries and fringe benefits to attract and keep their workers.

Top Drum Unit To Appear Here

The crack 95-member Racine, Wis., Drum & Bugle Corps, winner of the Wisconsin American Legion competition and also the 1966 VFW meet, will compete in drum corps competition in Escanaba during the Upper Peninsula American Legion convention in June.

The drum corps program is scheduled for Saturday, June 17, at the Escanaba Athletic Field.

Complete list of competing units will be announced later as planning for the four-day convention continues.

The Senior Citizens Committee of the Chamber of Commerce and members of Cloverland Post 82 will launch a drive for community support of the convention Monday. About 2,000 Legionnaires and their wives are expected to be in Escanaba for the convention.

The sponsoring organizations are seeking support from the community's business and professional community. General Chairman for the convention is Donald Guindon, city clerk.

A non-profit corporation has been formed to coordinate convention activities and profits derived will be divided equally between the Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and Exchange clubs for their philanthropic activities, it was announced.

Including the Racine Boy Scout drum corps, about 24 bands and marching units are expected for the parade. A Navy ship will be docked and is expected to be open for public tours and Joint Memorial interdenominational services will be held Sunday, June 18, at the Karas Memorial Band Shell in Ludington Park.

Mrs. John L. Greene finds that one of the delights of life in the Escanaba area is that poinsettias intended for Christmas last past Easter. At the Greene's Old Orchard Farm she has a plant which arrived Dec. 10 and which "looks as good today as then.

"In Texas," says Mrs. Greene "they grow almost wild and as much as two stories high and they keep their bloom a long time, especially from Austin south and in the valley. But with our winters it's a delight to find that they can be kept in bloom so long here.

"John told me that I should keep them wet and I did that the first year and they all died. This year I've just given them enough for a drink and it works fine!"

Troubled Times

It is a paradox that in this time when America is so wealthy and powerful that its people are troubled. That they are is evident on every hand.

There is a cynicism and a doubt prevailing that is new, in its present dimensions, in American life. We have come a long way from the attitude toward values that prevailed in the youth of our adults.

We have acquired so much that the process has been unsettling. A rather isolationist nation only a couple of generations ago, we are now the most powerful nation in the world and we regard the position as a rather unwelcome inheritance resulting from our strength. It, and our idealism and our lack of diplomatic skill and caution, got us into a war in Vietnam which we cannot win and from which we cannot extricate ourselves.

* * *

But, oddly, the war finds us at our best. We are immensely unhappy about it and questioning the sense of the sacrifices we are making there, but we keep an impressive national accord in our resolution to see it through to some kind of honorable conclusion.

In domestic affairs we have no such agreement and here it is that our uncertainties are most evident. We have awakened belatedly to realization that our beautiful America is seriously polluted; that we have destroyed the purity of the public waters by making cesspools of them. We have moved into a political era in which there is more effort to seduce the citizen than to inform him; inferring a dreadful belief that Americans don't want the truth about government; they want it to promise to take care of them at somebody else's expense.

* * *

There is an unhappiness about personal income and a widespread feeling that our economic system is rigged so that there isn't equal pay for equal effort. We have plunged into a federal War on Poverty program that is a great test of the honesty of our motives and we have not assessed well, as yet, its validity and direction, and whether it is having side-effects of social predation.

We have plunged in this and other programs — including Social Security — into government welfarism that can be regarded as one of the finest humanist flowers of our industrial culture. But there must be a wariness that merely giving some of the national plenty to the persons with smallest income doesn't remedy the basic situation of maldistribution.

The redistribution which goes for effective education and training is probably the most helpful assistance because it can be a contribution to the recipient's sense of responsibility. And if there is none of this there will not be a good result no matter how much help is tossed around.

* * *

America is moving away from its old founding concept of rewards for work. It is more and more accepting a philosophy of welfarism which is setting a floor under income; holding that a certain minimum of family income is necessary for good living and that if the family cannot or will not furnish it that the government will.

In an industrial society some such arrangement becomes necessary, but it has some cancerous seeds of dependency and gimmie in it. Pope Paul in his recent encyclical spoke out against unlimited capitalism, but unlimited government welfarism had its perils, too, and they especially menace the human spirit.

Much of our unhappiness comes from swift, unsettling change. The liturgy of ancient churches is new and unfamiliar. The nation that spends more on education than any other is developing the world's worst crime rate. We do not know enough, despite the accent on schooling, to cope with constantly evolving problems.

We had looked forward to making as much as we do today and now that it's here it doesn't buy as much as we'd hoped. And besides the government takes increasing amounts of it for its needs. We're learning, and it's sometimes disenchanting.

Youths Challenged

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — To listen to some of our public figures, the moment is nearly at hand to turn over to the nation's swelling numbers of young people the control of the universities, the economy, and the government.

The young ones themselves are loudly asserting either their claims to such leadership or their total disdain for U. S. society on the ground it is hopelessly false, corrupt, unfeeling and self-devouring.

The bedazzling statistic which underlies this considerable ferment is bounced off the wall by educators, politicians and others with almost hypnotic regularity — soon the people who are 25 years old and under will amount to half our grand total of 200 million-plus.

Americans generally, captivated always by a national mythology which ascribes to young folk a magic cluster of virtues, seem at times thoroughly intimated by the sheer force of youthful numbers. Many evidently are more than ready to abdicate.

Yet, some citizens of consequence are daring to remind that more than half the U. S. population is still over 25, that people are living longer than ever, that some of them may have some talent and even a little feeling.

Author Barbara Tuchman, talking not long ago to educators in Chicago, said of the time-tested American adult:

"If at 50 he does not believe that he has acquired more wisdom and informed experience than is possessed by the student at 20, then he is saying in effect that education has been a failure."

Admittedly, in some fields of schooling, the young of today are vastly better prepared than were their counterparts of even a few years ago. Professors at a respected midwestern law school say they are astonished at the rising flood of highly qualified applicants.

But evidence of this sort is not generally overwhelming. Surveys often have shown that students' grasp of history, politics and economics can be very spotty. Their mathematical skills have just been found to be less developed than those of students in other lands.

Many today exhibit a commendable urge to be active but tend to define activism narrowly in terms of protest. Picketing, sitting-in, "confronting" public figures like Defense Secretary McNamara and Vice President Humphrey are among their favored pursuits.

Again, author Tuchman suggests that useful activism is something more—"The courage to be independent and stand up for the standard of values one believes in." She added in Chciago:

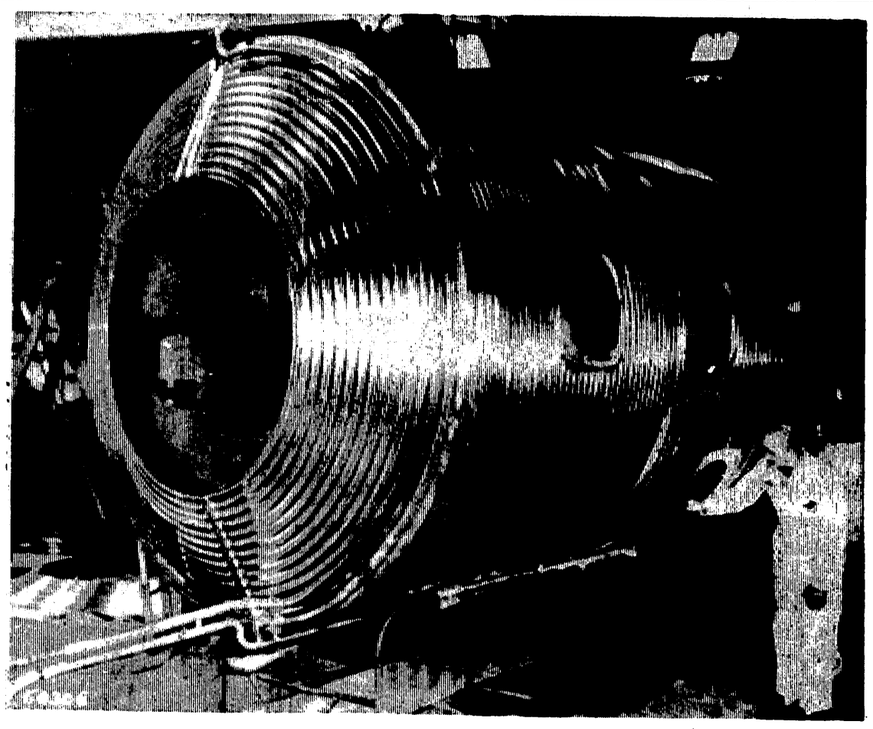
"I don't mean the courage to protest . . . or boo Secretary McNamara which, though it may stem from the right instinct, is a group thing that does not require any very stout spirit . . .

"There is nothing to that . . . I mean, rather, a kind of lonely moral courage . . ."

If protest is not a sufficient response to the ills of war and poverty, then neither is the inward-turning represented by youthful flights into the fantasy-world of LSD.

Those who seek such total alienation from U. S. society think they are investing themselves with a kind of nobility, since they believe they are rejecting contamination by the "system" they despise.

But they are eating off the system, living on a pass, while they tell themselves meanwhile that their idealistic purity is unsullied. They are complaining but leaving to others the hard work that flows from justifiable complaint.



TRANTER MANUFACTURING, INC., using a substantial portion of the stainless steel supplied by Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., Stainless and Strip Division, fabricated the above cryogenic shroud for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. This environmental space chamber, measuring 91 inches in diameter and 120 inches long, is fabricated of six plate type coil circuits. Liquid nitrogen circulates through each circuit at a rate of 15 gallons per minute. A similar chamber, 55 inches in diameter and 84 inches long, was built by Tranter for Bell Telephone Laboratories, Whippany, N. J., to test the Telstar Communications Satellite. The facility was designed to perform solar-radiation experiments.

State Firms Make Space Test Units

Two Michigan firms are helping to boost work on U.S. space programs.

Tranter Manufacturing, Inc., Lansing, and Jones & Laughlin Steel, Corp., Warren, are helping to supply a wide range of special corrosion-resistant stainless steel test equipment for space vehicles.

Jones & Laughlin produces the necessary stainless steel, and Tranter designs and manufactures the testing equipment.

Tranter, employing 400 workers, markets nationally heat exchange walls for space simulators, process equipment for rocket propellants, nuclear energy heat shields, enviromental temperature controls of missiles and cooling equipment for rocket test cells.

Thus far the company has built equipment to test such things as the Telstar communications satellite, Grauman Aircraft's orbiting astronomical observatory, the Mariner satellites, as well as many NASA space craft.

Functions In Cold

According to S. J. Stowell, Tranter vice president, "We are using stainless steel in the fabrication of this heat transfer equipment because of the metal's unique ability to withstand repeated and extreme temperature variations in the cryogenic range."

This means the stainless steel must withstand sub-zero temperatures below minus 320 degrees Fahrenheit. Tranter buys Type 304 and 316 stainless from J & L for these projects.

"Types 304 and 316 stainless steel have proven to be the most effective and most economical material for many aero-space projects involving cryogenic conditions, particularly for space simulators," Stowell said.

Tranter's Platecoil Division, one of the firm's five divisions in Michigan, is responsible for manufacturing what is known as Platecoil. This plate type coil, or embossed coil, consists of two embossed metal sheets of stainless steel, spot welded and seam welded together to form channels or a series of passes. These channels, either serpentine, multi-zone, or parallel, carry the heating or cooling medium. The embossings control flow patterns to increase velocities for improved heat transfer and reduced fouling.

Employ 1,200

"This basic product," Stowell said, "can be designed and built to meet a great variety of shape, size and operating requirements. We use the 'building block' approach, which allows us to meet specifications for literally hundreds of different fabrications."

The Stainless and Strip Division, Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., employing 1,200 Michigan workers, supplies Tranter with both Type 304 and 316 stainless sheet, most of it .060 inch thick.

As a leading supplier of cryogenic heat sinks, baffles and cryo-pumping surfaces for space simulators and bell jars, Tranter's products are being used by many firms in the aero-space industry today.

Projects by these firms encompass deep space simulators to test space craft under the interplanetary conditions of extreme cold, high vacuum and intense solar radiation; heat sinks, through which liquid nitrogen is circulated at about minus 320 degrees F, simulating conditions of outer space; space chambers designed to perform solar-radiation experiments; and special cryogenic shrouds for environmental space chambers. Some of these units were used in testing the communications satellite.

Letters To The Press

Contributions are welcome. They cannot be over 300 words and must be signed with name, address and phone number of writer and names will be used. The right to condense letters is reserved.

RADIO

My wife Alyce frowns on my letters to the press so I try and limit them to one every decade. I apologize to her if I wrote my last letter less then ten years ago.

With the advent of spring I look back at a really bitter winter and feel grateful that it is over. I believe all of us, especially parents, owe a debt of gratitude to the two Escanaba radio station's WDBC and WLST. Through the winter months when severe and adverse weather condition prevailed in this area they have faithfully early in the morning reported the area school closings, road condition and tardy school bus schedules.

* * *

It is my understanding that radio stations are under no obligation to the public to perform this service and do so on voluntary basis. I believe a sincere public "thank you is in order and is long overdue for previous winter weather condition reporting. Perhaps the boards from the various schools covered by the radio stations (on behalf of the children and their parents) could extend an official thank you in the form of a letter of appreciation signed by the school board president or the school superintendent.

School buses do not always stop in front of a pupils home to pick them up. Many students have to walk and wait at a designated spot on the road to be picked up. Visualize a little six-year-old girl on a storm-swept county road on the Stonington Peninsula in sub-zero temperatures waiting patiently and trustingly for a school bus that never comes or is late. Instant communication via radio oring the message that eliminates this needless suffering for the children and the anxiety experienced by their parents.

* * *

What greater message of joy can a parent convey to his or her youngsters early on a cold winter morning when they are snug and warm in their beds, "Peter and Anne guess what? The announcer on the Escanaba radio station just said, 'No school in Rapid River today!'" Their little faces for a moment light up like a Christmas tree. They close their eyes and the smile doesn't completely fade from their countenance when they return to their slumber.

A sincere thank you from one parent.

When you have to lead against a grand slam in no-trump all regular rules go by the board. Obviously, you don't have an ace. In that case you would double and cash it.

Since you don't have an ace our first thought is about the possibility that your partner will hold one. People aren't supposed to bid seven if they are one ace short, but it happens. Once you decide that your partner doesn't hold one of those pretty cards, the next step in your process of reasoning should be to find a lead least likely to help declarer.

Against most contracts you try to find an attacking lead. You also try to lead a card that will give your partner information. Against a grand slam you don't care about helping your partner but you sure don't want to help declarer.

Now take a look at the West hand. It is the sort of hand you usually hold when your opponents get to seven notrump. You don't have much hope of beating the contract but you do want to make a lead least likely to help declarer.

Therefore you abandon all thought of leading either a heart or a club. You might well be destroying the chance that your jack in either suit will bother declarer.

You are right. A heart or club lead gives declarer his contract. This leaves your choice between a spade and a diamond. It turns out that a lead of any card in one of those suits will be satisfactory, but you should lead a spade on the general theory that there isn't likely to be a long major suit in either the North or South hand and we recommend that you lead the six so that declarer won't be able to get a quick idea as to how many spades you hold.

Finding The Way

Lets Make Up Our Minds

By RALPH W. LOEW, D. D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

We are a bundle of contradictions and honest people know it. Our real tragedy occurs when we simply accommodate ourselves to life without any sense of conflict. From the vantage point of Easter we ought to look at our contradictions:

● Honest men have adamently opposed any changes in the laws concerning abortion and yet, using the same logic, they bless war or, at least, do not oppose it. How do you apply the standards concerning the sanctity of human life?

● There is a general support of any attempts which can encourage reduction of governmental expenditures until it affects us locally. Then we protest, even though the continuance of the project may be wasteful. How do we apply the standards of honesty?

● We deplore the growing crime rates and yet we tolerate slums, inferior housing and continue the conditions of poverty. How do we apply the standards of concern for our neighbor? And who is my neighbor?

A few years ago a national convention of one of our larger religious denominations was delayed in its discussions for several hours because of a debate which arose out of one of its reports. The framers of the resolution had said that if a churchman prayed on Sunday that he should be rid of all hatred and prejudice and then went out of the church continuing the same prejudice as before, this prayer was blasphemy. The use of that word touched off the heated debate. Finally, the matter was resolved by a rewording which stated that to continue the prejudice after praying that it be removed was a contradiction. So, blasphemy or contradiction, the issue is before each person.

St. Paul stated it in practical terms: "I often find that I have the will to do good, but not the power. That is, I don't accomplish the good I set out to do and the evil I don't really want to do I find I am always doing...In my mind I am God's willing servant but in my own nation I am bound fast to the law of sin and death. It is an agonizing situation!" Paul found a way out of this situation by the very nature of his faith.

Our danger is that these contradictions will be accepted as normal. When we erode any consciousness of struggle or understanding of this paradox of our values, we've come to the place where there is moral breakdown. Then sin is only a word and morality only a consensus of behavior.

Recognizing this, those who proclaim the importance of a faith which produces a new way of life have to take a look at the contradictions we tolerate. We may not rule them out of life. We can know the tension of the struggle, for the awareness of that tension can be the beginning of a new way of life. We won't be satisfied with the contradictions.

Booze Knocks Out Message To Brain

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you won't think this problem is too goofy to print. I do need your help.

Every night before I get into bed I set my alarm clock. After I turn the light out I begin to have doubts—"Did I set the alarm or didn't I?"

Now mind you, Ann Landers, I know very well I set the alarm, but I am not satisfied until I turn on the light and check at least three times.

Can it be that I am cracking up at the age of 17? Please answer soon because I am not getting any better.—FLIPPED OUT

Dear Flipped: Almost everyone has some secret little compulsion. This is yours.

Here is a gimmick that might help you beat it. The next time you set the alarm clock, put a rubber band around your left wrist. When you begin to have doubts, feel for the rubber band. It will serve as evidence that you did indeed set the alarm.

Dear Ann Landers: I noticed in Wall Street Warrior Number Two's reply he said, "As far as sex is concerned, forget it. That went dead in a dry martini."

I would like to know, whose martini? His or hers? This has been the basis for quite an argument between me and a friend. He says liquor intensifies the sex drive of a female but it diminishes the sex drive of a male. I say liquor intensifies the sex drive of both male and female. Who is right?—OPEN TO ELUCIDATION

Dear Open: Alcohol does not intensify the sex drive of either male or female; it simply removes the inhibitions. This does not mean booze makes people sexier, it merely means it impairs the judgment and people are inclined to do things they would not do if they were sober.

Individuals who have had a great deal to drink may find they are unable to function sexually because the booze has knocked out the mental machinery and no messages are reaching the brain.

Dear Ann Landers: Your letter to the girl who had epilepsy entitles you to the heartfelt thanks of every person in the world who has the illness. You have done innumerable services for all kinds of people, Ann, but no service can be greater than giving an epileptic the courage to face his illness without shame.

Three years ago I was told I had epilepsy. After I got over feeling sorry for myself I thanked God I didn't have anything worse. But you can't imagine the change in peoples [illegible] are an epileptic. I was so devastated [illegible] close friends that I decided never to tell anyone again.

Please, Ann Landers, mention this subject from time to time. You have a rare opportunity to educate the public in a way that no one else can. God bless you.—ONE WHO CAN'T EVEN SIGN HER OWN INITIALS

Dear One: I have received hundreds of letters from epileptics who expressed gratitude for an understanding of the illness. My thanks to all of you for your generous comments.

They resided in Rapid River for about 40 years before going to live at Pinecrest about three years ago. Mr. Picord is 75 and Mrs. Picord is 70 years old. They have two children, Mrs. Carl (Lila) Dittrich of Skokie, Ill., and Peter Picord of Milwaukee, Wis., six grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Picord made his living as a woodsman.

Percy, Rockefeller Nuptials At 4 Today

CHICAGO (AP) — It was originally intended to be a simple affair. But by the time Sharon Percy and John D. (Jay) Rockefeller IV speak their marriage vows today, the ceremony will have all the pomp and circumstance and national attention of a royal ceremony.

Members of the city's symphony orchestra, a choir, an organist, two ministers, a bridal party of 25 and more than 1,200 guests were a part of the marriage rites set for 4 p.m. CST in the cathedral-like Rockefeller Memorial Chapel on the University of Chicago campus.

Those Chicagoans who could not wangle an invitation into the church could watch it on color television tonight.

Some people speak awesomely of this marriage of families as a "natural alliance," despite the difference in family politics.

Sharon's father, Sen. Charles Percy, is a Republican senator and considered a potential presidential candidate. Jay is a Democrat in the West Virginia Legislature and is an heir to millions, as the great-grandson of the founder of Standard Oil.

It is hailed the wedding of the year.

Tall, flowering crab trees, blooming magnolias and azaleas and hedgelike arrangements of multicolored flowers decorate the altar, and iron candle holders are placed along the side walls and the 51 rows of pews.

The carillons which Jay's father gave to the chapel in memory of his mother, Laura Spelman Rockefeller, will bring a prelude of music a half hour before the double ring service. They were to resound across the campus when the minister, Rev. Robert J. McCracken, pronounces the couple man and wife.

Sharing the ceremonial rites with the Rev. Mr. McCracken, the Rockefellers' minister from Riverside church, New York City, was the chapel dean, the Rev. E. Spencer Parson.

A brass ensemble of three trumpets, three trombones, a tuba and the tympani playing the processional, "The Canzona per Sanor a Quatro," by Giovanni Gabrieli, was the signal for the bridal procession to begin.

Nine lovely ladies in white ivory empire-waisted gowns were to take measured steps down the long aisle under vaulted ceilings of tile and Gothic arches. The slate floor had been scrubbed so well that traditional runners were not used underfoot.

A simple garland bouquet of white violets, rhododendron and roses—the state flowerers of Illinois, West Virginia and New York — was Sharon's impartial choice for her nonsectarian exchange of vows.

Jay is a Baptist and Sharon is a Christian Scientist, a religion which has no marriage ceremony.

Ida Noyes Hall, across the street from a dormitory where Sharon's father once waited on tables, was decorated by bright-colored English bouquets of flowers.

Freddie Wacker, a socialite orchestra leader, was chosen by Sharon and Jay to play dance music, not rock 'n' roll. Along with punch bowls of nonalcoholic pink fruit punch, there was at least enough champagne for toasting.

The attractive blonde 22-year-old bride and her lanky 6-foot-6 husband in tortoise shell glasses will honeymoon in the Orient.

Area Delegates Attend Hospital Council Meet

Mrs. William E. Butler, upper 11th district president, Ethel Larson, rehabilitation chairman, Minnie Jensen, Cloverland Post 82, unit chairman and Signe Nerbonne, poppy chairman, attended the American Legion auxiliary hospital council meeting at the Iron Mountain V. A. Hospital on March 28.

Mrs. Anita Tramontin, VAVS representative, welcomed the guests and Dr. Henry Vogel, spoke on auxiliary work in the hospital. Dr. Arthur Muth, director of volunteers, spoke on the organization of VAVS. Mrs. Vera Desimone, VAVS representative of the Veteran's Administration Hospital, Battle Creek, lectured on orientation courses. Oakley Wyant, chief social worker at the V. A. Hospital told of volunteer work and the adjustment of patients who must go to nursing homes before returning to their own homes after being discharged from the V. A. Hospital.

It was noted that 631 gifts were distributed this year from the Christmas Gift Shop. Twenty-two volunteers from the 11th district and 35 from the 12th district worked in the gift shop this year.

Hospital volunteer groups began 21 years ago with 43 groups. That number has now grown to 400 groups giving service to 165 hospitals.

College Paper Is Bringing Praise And Problems For Student Staff

By LORRAINE BLAHNIK
(Daily Press Staff)

Problems of newspaper production are basically similar, whether it's the New York Times or the Bay Beacon, published by students of Bay de Noc Community College in Escanaba.

These are problems of finances, advertising, circulation, content — and those pernicious printing errors that afflict every publication.

"Our typographical errors embarrass us, but they do stimulate perusing interest by the students," said Tim Powers, the Bay Beacon's new editor.

There was the caption under a picture taken by the roving reporter. Only it came out "raving reporter catches students playing table tennis."

Stimulating Factor

But the one that was caught before the Bay Beacon went to print avoided an unhappy student-teacher relationship. It was about the dedicated teacher—who was loaded rather than lauded!

The Bay Beacon, written and edited by the students of Bay de Noc Community College, is in its first year. The complete paper is assembled at the college and then taken to Gladstone to be set in type for offset printing by the Delta Reporter.

The paper was established basically to promote communication between the administration, faculty, students and the general public of the college area.

Its purpose is to stimulate discussion and thought on all facets of life effecting the college student.

Paper Expands

"Many of the 28 students on the staff expect to continue a career in journalism. We receive practical experience in addition to the required subjects in new writing," said Powers.

"We have been operating with a financial deficit but we expect to eliminate this by expanding our current four page paper into an eight page edition by promoting advertising," he added.

The Bay Beacon's circulation is 650 with copies available to the public at numerous news stands in Escanaba.

In 1964 and 1965 the Bay de Noc Community College students' publication was called the "Bay View". It was an informal mimeographed paper that varied in size and was published infrequently.

Mature, Independent

Other members of the staff include Steve Davis, Dick Ruscha, Linda Beaudoin, Helen Knaus, Gene Kauffman, Judy Pendergraft, Cheryl Toushak, Mollie Larson, Pat Messier.

Scott Szapa, Carol Smokovich, Paul Kangas, Jane Beckstrom, Bill Wickham, Anne Erfourth, John Williams, Cindy White, Dan Sabor, Janice Fisk, Robert Smith, Dick Johnson and Jim Hughes.

Faculty advisor is Mrs. Kenneth (Barbara) Sanderson, journalism instructor at the college. Her work received praise from Dr. Richard Rinehart, president of Bay de Noc Community College.

"The success of the paper more than any other single thing is a reflection of the guidance of faculty advisor, Mrs. Sanderson, and in her ability to develop these students into competent journalists," Rinehart said.

Rinehart emphasized that the newspaper represents student opinion and thought rather then that of the faculty or administration.

"We are extremely pleased with the paper and the students are succeeding to a greater degree then I had expected in producing a mature and independent paper," he added.

Early Steelhead Season Opens

Michigan's early steelhead and brown trout season opened this morning, but prospects in the Upper Peninsula are not expected to pickup for a week to 10 days on most streams.

Conservation officials reported that although some streams opened up a little bit overnight, most are still covered with ice except for the mouth. Only one fish was reported caught early this morning, that out of the Carp River in Marquette County.

In Delta County, the only stream open to the special season on steelhead and brown trout is the Sturgeon River. Ice reportedly broke up in the river Friday, but the water level is still very high.

Great Lakes Legal

It is also legal to fish in the Great Lakes and officials indicated that Little Bay de Noc where creeks empty near the power plant and old Buckeye mill in Gladstone "may be as good a spot as any' this early.

About 100 streams and lakes were opened today for the special season and conservation men predicted the possibility of a record catch. The steelheads, running upstream to spawn, and brown trout became legal in specified areas after midnight. (Steelheads are rainbow trout, which leave their native streams for lakes, taking on a more silvery appearance).

"We're especially interested in size," said Steve Lievense of the Department's fish division. "Bigger fish are being taken every year lately. We think a record one for Michigan could be caught this year."

The Michigan record is a 21-pound, seven-ounce steelhead caught on the Big Manistee River by Golmus Ladadie in 1947.

"Steelheads up to 19 pounds were caught last year," Lievense said.

Fish Make Comeback

Since the lamprey was brought under control, steelheads have been making a good comeback in the Great Lakes. The trout feed all winter on the millions of alewives swarming in the lakes, then head upstream in spring to spawn.

The Conservation Dept. in Escanaba is keeping a close watch on the Days and Bark Rivers, where the department in cooperation with the Delta County Sportsmen's Club, planted thousands of fingerling rainbow trout two years ago in an effort to establish spring steelhead runs. Fish biologists expect that some fish might return to the streams this spring, but that the major results from the program, if it succeeds, wouldn't be expected until next year.

Neither stream is legal to fish.

Sportsman's Club Has New Officers

HERMANSVILLE — The William Anderson Sportsman's Club had new officers for its meeting at Rodman's Wednesday night.

They are Len LaCoursier, president; John Malone, vice-president; Bobby Joe Menard, Treasurer, and Doug LaCoursier, Secretary.

Menard and Malone reported on the recent deer survey meeting they attended at Amasa. They also will attend the next survey meeting at Crystal Falls, April 8.

Clifford Long, Escanaba district biologist, reported that he checked Hermansville Lake Monday and found the oxygen content at 10 parts per million. Three parts per million is critical.

The club is optimistic over the use of outboard motors. However, when the ice leaves the lake, the final results of the program will be determined by the number of dead fish on the shore.

The recent membership drive during the past month shows the club has 35 paid up members. Frank Rodman was chairman of the lunch committee and John Malone presented a film on water skiing.

Mack Charges Tax Swindle In Sylvania Deal

A bill passed the State Senate Friday which would reimburse counties for tax losses incurred when such properties as the Sylvania tract are taken off the tax rolls. Senator Joseph S. Mack (D-Ironwood) said the bill provided for payment by the purchaser of a full year of taxes whenever private property is purchased by a governmental unit.

The U. S. Forest Service purchased the Sylvania tract from the Fisher estate in December of 1965 but did not take possession of the property until November of 1966. Now both the U. S. Forest Service and the Fisher estate refuse to pay county and township taxes for 1966, said Mack in terming the transaction "a deal that smacks of an old fashioned land tax swindle."

"Apparently the U. S. Forest Service and the Fisher estate lawyers have resorted to deceptive tactics to beat the people of Gogebic County out of $42,000 in revenues," Mack said. "The U. S. Government agents and the Fisher estate attorneys merely signed a deal one year in advance of the time the land was to be transferred, thereby retaining for the Fisher estate a large amount of money that rightfully owed in taxes in Gogebic County."

Delta's Roads Under Trucking Weight Limits

Delta County's roads — under weight restrictions for trucking since Tuesday noon because of the breakup — are coming through the seasonal change from winter to spring in good condition.

But William Karas, Delta County highway engineer, has his fingers crossed. Heavy rainfall in this period of warmth could cause flooding and high-water troubles and there's still a lot of snow in Marquette County to melt and come down Delta's rivers, he says.

There have been no major floodings on Delta roads in the past week as the snow melted fast. It has been seeping into the ground in good order and not causing flooding. Ditches were snow-covered early in the winter and didn't freeze deeply and they're open and carrying away the meltwater.

None of the major rivers have been out of their banks yet, but a few culverts have been flooded, said Karas. There was an ice jam on the Escanaba River at the Cornell bridge last evening, backing up ice floes for about an eighth of a mile.

The weight restrictions imposed on Tuesday will remain on until certification by the state and county road departments that highways can again bear normal loadings without damage.

The State Highway Department placed restrictions upon trucking — mostly logging trucks — in Menominee, Dickinson, Iron and other counties to the west earlier. Delta had freezing temperatures at night which eased the situation until this week.

The weight formula varies with truck, axles and spacing of axles.

Forest Limit

Sherwood C. Trotter, supervisor of the Hiawatha National Forest announces that road weight restrictions are now in effect for Forest Service roads in Delta, Schoolcraft, Mackinac, Chippewa and Alger Counties. These restrictions will coincide with state and county weight restrictions. "During this severe breakup, we urge limited use of Forest Service roads," said Trotter.

Southpaw Blues Plague Detroit

LAKELAND Fla. (AP)—Those lefthander blues are plaguing the Detroit Tigers again.

The Tigers managed a run off a righthander, but two southpaws baffled them Friday and the Washington Senators won a Grapefruit League game 3-1 in ten innings.

Lefty Pete Richert started for Washington and worked six innings, allowing only four hits and no runs. Dave Baldwin, a righthander, worked the next two innings. He gave up one run in the eighth on a double by Norm Cash and a single by Don Wert.

Lefthander Dick Linesheld Detroit scoreless the last two innings, although he gave up three hits.

Johnny Podres started for Detroit and pitched five strong innings, allowing four hits, no runs and no walks, and striking out three.

Johnny Klippstein took the next two and gave up a run in the sixth on a single to Tim Cullen, a walk to Fred Valentine, a single by Frank Howard and an infield out by Cap Peterson.

The big bear, Fred Gladding, finished. He allowed two runs on two hits in his three innings.

In the tenth, Doug Camilli made first on a fielder's choice and Dick Nen walked. Ed Brinkman singled Camilli home and then scored on an infield out by Cullen.

"I think we're going to be having troubles with lefthanders again this year," said Tigers Manager Mayo Smith.

"If Willie Horton and Al Kaline can't hit them, then we're in trouble. I don't think Jim Northrup and Norm Cash (who bat left-handed) will do too badly against them. I might play Jake Wood at second if Dick McAuliffe has trouble with lefthanders."

Both Horton and Kaline — right-handed sluggers — sat out the game. Kaline has a sore leg and Horton has what Smith described as "a type of bursitis. Nothing serious. It's in that tendon above the heel. The doctors say it's not the same bone spur he had last winter. He may be out two or three days more. He can take batting practice, he just can't run."

The manager said Ray Oyler will miss a couple of days. Big Frank Howard slid into him at second base, and he "got a pretty bad bruise on the shin."

[illegible] ... Jaycee Little League Set For 17th Season

The Escanaba Jaycee Little League is preparing for its 17th year of operation with the call for candidates for the 1967 season.

Registration blanks may be picked up at Club 314, at the home of Player Agent Paul Vardigan at 1704 Eighth Ave. John's Market or the Office Service Company.

Any boy living in the Escanaba franchised area who will be nine years old before Aug. 1, but not 13, is eligible to try out. Each candidate must present acceptable proof of age at the time of filing the registration blank. Tryouts under the supervision of managers will begin as soon as the weather permits. With approximately 40 candidates added to the rosters each year, boys who played in the Minor League last summer are particularly requested to sign up.

Little League baseball got into operation in Escanaba and the Upper Peninsula in 1951, and four of its original sponsors, the Escanaba Jaycees, Kiwanis, Lions, and Rotary are still with the program. In later years when the program got its own diamond the league expanded to include VFW, Escanaba Banks, Escanaba Credit Unions and Eagles.

In addition these sponsors assist in equiping the minor league which has operated successfully for the past several years under the direction of Earl Dumas and takes care of another 100 boys. Last year for the first time in the league's history the Bankers won the championship in both the Major and Minor leagues.

Greer Turns Cage Tables

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Someone in the Philadelphia 76ers' dressing room asked if K.C. Jones had "Hal Greerius."

Greer, the 76ers' sharp-shooting jump shot artist, laughed heartily, then cautioned, "don't get him mad. This series isn't over yet."

The by-play took place after the 76ers trounced the Celtics 127-113 to take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-7 final playoff series in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

The teams play game No. 2 at Boston on Sunday.

San Francisco, leading 1-0, plays St. Louis at home tonight in second game of the Western finals.

For several years now, some sources have charged that Greer chokes up when he faces Boston and its dynamic, little guard, K.C. Jones.

They'll have to get a new book on the matchup. Greer has scored 76 points against the Celtics the last two times he has faced them. He collected 39 Friday night to lead an awesome Philadelphia assault on the famed Boston defense.

While Greer was pumping in 20 foot jumpers, Wilt Chamberlain demoralized the Celtics inside. The 7-foot-1 Most Valuable Player of the NBA scored 24 points, but more important, he grabbed 32 rebounds, handed out 12 assists and blocked a dozen Boston shots.

The 76ers romped to a 66-49 lead, increased it to 25 points at one stage of the second half and coasted home.

Pro Cage Raids May Be Stopped By Pension Plan

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Pistons owner Fred Zollner said Friday that the National Basketball Association pension plan may be a trump card if the fledgling American Basketball Association tries to raid NBA teams.

"I think ballplayers with seniority will be reluctant to give up vested pension rights," he said.

Zollner's statement came only hours after reports that franchises in the ABA — particularly Indianapolis, Ind. — had made contact with NBA players.

Tom Van Arsdale, a two-year vet to Indianapolis this week for talks with officials of the ABA team. He came back amid reports that he had been offered $90,000 over three years.

However, a spokesman for the Indianapolis club said, "We had some discussions in the financial area with Tom, but he definitely was not offered a $90,000, three-year contract. We discussed his salary at Detroit and the possibility of his earnings should he come to Indianapolis, but no offer was made."

"I prefer to stay in Detroit," Van Arsdale said. "But the money they offer is nearly double what I'm making here."

The Indianapolis spokesman said his club had been in contact with Tom's twin brother Dick, of the New York Knickerbockers, as well as with Terry Dischinger, former Purdue player who is under contract to play with the Pistons after getting out of the Army. He said the club also has contacted Jon McGlocklin and Oscar Robertson of the Cincinnati Royals.

Dave DeBusschere, former player-coach of the Pistons and still a player, said he had been contacted by more than one ABA team. He declined to give specifics.

"I know the ABA teams have contacted a lot of players," he said.

There were also reports that Rick Barry, San Francisco's high scoring forward, had been offered $100,000 to jump to the Oakland franchise of the ABA.

Meanwhile, at Oakland, Calif., the ABA awarded a franchise to Louisville, Ky. A 12th city is expected to be added by the ABA owners before their weekend meeting is over.

Undermuscled Porsche Could Give Race Rivals Horsepower Chuckle

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — If Ford or Chaparral doesn't win the 12-hour Sebring endurance race today, the way is open for undermuscled Porsche to give their bigger rivals the horsepower laugh.

A new Mark IV Ford with Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., and Bruce McLaren of New Zealand sharing the driver's seat, is the fastest in the field by far.

One of the Ford Mark II models which won here last year and went on to the world sports car championship and a pair of Jim Hall's Chaparrals are the other speed cars.

They have big 7-liter engines compared to the 3-liter Porsches.

At Daytona Beach, Fla., as the 1967 season opened in February, the Fords and Chaparrals failed mechanically and Ferrari posted a 1-3-5 finish.

The difference here is that Ferrari didn't come with either its factory team from Italy or North American racing team. The fastest Ferrari is an independent entry by David Piper of England.

One driver problem cropped up for the Chaparrals when Phil Hill, former world champion from Santa Monica, Calif., was stricken with appendicitis Friday and taken to a St. Petersburg hospital.

Jim Hall, millionaire owner and developer of the unorthodox Chaparrals with their automatic transmissions, might return to the driver's seat he shared with partner Hap Sharpe in winning the Sebring endurance test two years ago.

Omen or not, the favorite won in Friday's warmup, one of a series of 18 Trans-American sedan races being run around the country this year.

Jerry Titus of Sherman Oaks, Calif., drove a Ford Mustang to victory from the pole position.

He made two pit stops while Mark Donohue of Stoney Brook, N.Y., got by once during the four-hour race. But Titus' Mustang prepared by Carroll Shelby was fast and steady even though he bent his steering on the fourth lap of the 5.2-mile flat course on an old World War II air base.

"I hit the tire markers on the border of the course and had steering trouble all the way," said Titus, 38-year-old veteran driver and editor for Sports Car Graphic magazine.

Fastest qualifier at 98.8 miles per hour, Titus ran the race at 94.824 m.p.h. and led from start to finish.

Donohue placed second with his Chevrolet Camaro.

Jim Stafanich Near Keg Crown

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Jim Stafanich, who has won $2,050 in 11 tournaments this year, had the inside track today for the $25,000 top prize in professional bowling's richest event, the $100,000 Firestone Tournaments of Champions.

The blond 26-year-old was named unbeatable Friday in the final eight of 48 qualifying games. He set 13 records by rolling 12,144 for the 48 games.

Only once did the Joliet, Ill., native fall below the 200 mark. That was a 184 Friday afternoon.

Up until then he had rolled 28 consecutive games over 200. He posted a 236 average for the 48-game series.

Reaction Mixed On Soviet Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet bid to supply generators for America's Grand Coulee Dam was termed today "another example of the crafty maneuvers of the Communists to outwit us" by Sen. Karl E. Mundt.

Reaction of other senators queried was less volatile, although most looked askance at the Soviet proposal.

But Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., appeared undismayed. "What's the matter with that?" he asked.

"I think that's going a little too far," said Sen John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., while Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, confined his comments to "interesting, very interesting."

But Mundt, R-S.D., a major opponent of President Johnson's East-West "bridge-building" proposals — like increased trade and the U.S.-Soviet Consular Treaty — said the Soviet bid amounted to "a one-way bridge."

Kelley Defends Grand Juries

PONTIAC (AP)— Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has charged that a legislative move to abolish the state's one-man grand jury system would "create a vacuum which could be filled with equal parts of corruption and organized crime."

Speaking to the Pontiac Exchange Club, Kelley said he would oppose such action "unless and until an adequate substitute tool is placed in the hands of the law enforcement community."

Bills to repeal the one-man grand jury statute currently are before the House and Senate, sponsored by Rep. Josephine Hunsinger, D-Detroit, and Sen. James Gray, D-Warren.

Kelley conceded that the one-man grand jury procedure as it now exists "is certainly not perfect."

However, he said, the proposal comes at a time when President Johnson's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice has recognized the need for a grand jury.

In addition, Kelley said, "the fact is that today in Michigan it (the grand jury) is the most effective weapon we now have with which to combat syndicated criminal activities and corruption in government."

THREE GAASTRA YOUTHS used the open road as a delivery room to give life to this porcupine after the animal's mother had been struck and killed by a car. The former biology students at Stambaugh High School used a pocket knife for a scalpel to investigate the possibility of the dead mother having young inside, and removed the baby. The new arrival, now three days old, is doing fine as displayed here taking milk from an eyedropper held by Les Campbell a Stambaugh High School senior. Aiding in the operation were Ralph Mathison Jr., a senior also looking on, and Robert Mathison, a sophomore. Although the body of the porcupine was covered only by soft, fuzzy hair, the tail had already developed sharp quills. The youths plan to bring the baby porkie to school.

Insurance Assn. Reminder

Traffic Injures 243 Here In '66

A campaign to increase public awareness of the rules of traffic safety in Escanaba will be undertaken by the Escanaba Association of Insurance Agents in observance of "Protection Week," April 16-22.

Alan Davidson, president of the Association said the program will be aimed at reminding both drivers and pedestrians that the responsibility for traffic safety is essentially theirs.

"We hope," said Davidson, "to build a consciousness of the very real personal responsibility for traffic safety in the minds of all citizens. The terrible toll of human life and financial loss cannot rightly be blamed on the police; it is necessary for every driver — and every pedestrian, too — to make safety a daily habit."

Davidson said traffic accidents killed a record 140 persons every day in the nation last year, according to the National Safety Council and some 5,200 other persons suffered disabling injuries every 24 hours.

Escanaba wasn't free of this affliction. It had one traffic death in the year and at least 243 persons injured in traffic accidents.

Indian Architect Draws Design For Bay Mills Church

WARREN (AP) — A house of worship may once again adorn the Bay Mills Indian Reservation in the Upper Peninsula, thanks to a full-blooded Chippewa who remembers hardship.

"I am where I am by luck," said Sylvester E. Stone, who left the Indian reservation near Sarnia, Ont., and became a successful architect.

A Canadian immigrant living in this Detroit suburb, Stone has designed a church to replace the one that was destroyed on the reservation in a fire last Dec. 21.

He refuses to accept a fee.

"Because I have been lucky, I think I owe that much to my fellow man," Stone said. "We have forgotten the Indians."

Stone doesn't forget—he keeps the regalia of a tribal medicine man to remind him of his background.

An architect's fee, he said, usually would run to 6 or 7 per cent of the project, which is expected to cost between $120,000 and $130,000.

The Bay Mills Indians don't have that much.

The Rev. Father Joseph Lawless, SJ, and Roy Cavanagh, chief of the 350 Chippewas on the Bay Mills Reservation, said about $36,000 is available—$15,000 in fire insurance and $21,000 in donations. They were in Warren Friday to discuss the project with Stone.

Stone is among those working to gather funds for the project.

"We're holding church now in a community hall," Father Lawless said. "Church attendance hasn't been good since the fire. It's dwindled to about 50 persons."

He proposes to name the new church—a structure of masonry and wood in contemporary style—St. Catherine after a Chippewa maiden named Kateri Pekawitha who became a Christian in 1660.

CHARLEVOIX (AP) — Consumers Power Co. said Thursday that its nuclear plant near Charlevoix has set a one billion kilowatt hour generation record.

A billion kilowatt hours is sufficient to power a city of 10,000 for 20 years.

Plant Superintendent Russell B. DeWitt said the next billion kilowatt hours should be reached in two years instead of the five taken for the present record

Election Law Teeth Needed

LANSING (AP) – Secretary of State James Hare today urged "a law with teeth" to control political campaign expenditures in Michigan.

Hare said such a law is needed "before a scandal of major proportions breaks out in Michigan as it has in other states and at the federal level."

He said a bill introduced by Sen. George Fitzgerald, D-Grosse Pointe Park, would "greatly strengthen our campaign expense reporting by giving the candidate control over money raised and spent on his behalf by committees."

"Under present law," Hare said, "candidates have virtually no control over money spent in their name. In fact, committees can be formed without a candidate's knowledge or approval and often are."

There is nothing in present law, Hare said, to stop a Communist or extreme right wing group announcing support of a candidate against his wishes and hurting his reputation.

The new bill, Hare said, provides that "there be no disbursement on behalf of a candidate for political purposes except under his personal direction."

The law also liberalizes the amount of money a candidate may spend. It would raise the limit from $40 to $100 for each 1,000 votes cast for president in the candidate's political subdivision.

Hare said a review of political spending and fund-raising by various candidates within two congressional districts showed no wrongdoing "but glaring inconsistencies."

Windsor Students Vote Down Aid To Draft Dodgers

WINDSOR, Ont., (AP) —University of Windsor students voted more than 5-1 this week against supporting a center to help Michigan students come to Canada to avoid the draft.

In a campus-wide vote, 233 students voted for advancing student council funds to maintain the center and 1,141 voted against.

A vote by the Graduate Society censured its own executive Committee for advancing $100 towards the center, dubbed Info 67 but the student committee's actions, and plans won't be affected by the vote, one source said.

Attend the Church of Your Choice

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

When Jimmy Clark crowned the tiny church with the steeple it touched my heart.

Incidentally, I admire Jimmy Clark and I am interested in everything he does. When he brushes his teeth or rides his tricycle, or climbs the sliding board at the playground I admire his concentration and his careful workmanship. And when he cuddles into his Daddy's lap at bedtime or walks hand in hand with him up the church steps on Sunday he looks like an angel.

I think you have guessed it by now, haven't you? I'm Jimmy's mother — and a doting mother at that. I think Jimmy could accomplish just about anything . . . doctor, lawyer, merchant; why he might be President some day.

But whatever he becomes, I want him to be a good man; strong and true of character, firm in his principles. I want him to have God as his partner. That's why I go to church every Sunday and take Jimmy. It's the best insurance I know for a happy and fulfilled life.
